

Event held with splendour to celebrate 69th anniversary of great war victory

General Secretary Kim Jong Un attends event to deliver keynote speech

KCNA

A grand celebration event took place in front of the Monument to the Victorious Fatherland Liberation War in the capital city of Pyongyang to celebrate the 69th anniversary of victory in the great Fatherland Liberation War.

Kim Jong Un, general secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea and president of the State Affairs of the DPRK, attended the celebration event.

The grand edifice for education in victory tradition, which imposingly stands as the main statue of victory representing the dignified picture of heroic Korea that pronounced for the first time in history the shameful destruction on the US, the chieftain of world imperialism, was filled with delight and passion of all the participants who are to significantly commemorate the great war victory day as a grand festival of glory and succession with Kim Jong Un in attendance.

A ceremony of the commemorative event was held.

The central military band of the Ministry of National Defence made different formations to the tune of revolutionary military songs full of the fighting spirit and members of the honour guard of the KPA showed dexterity with rifles.

Then paratroopers and combat flying corps demonstrated their skills.

A paratrooper dropped at an altitude of 1 200 metres, opened a control parachute and threaded his way through the nocturnal sky as a dazzling flower presented to the defenders of the country in the great years of war victory.

The participants warmly applauded the paratrooper solemnly flying in the sky of July the sacred flag of the DPRK, which the heroic soldiers, sung and unsung, defended with blood and handed down by sacrificing even their families, love, dreams, hope, youth and lives to bring the victory of July 27.

Combat pilots of the KPA air force units, which were awarded the guard unit title with military merits for opening the way to a charge for southward advance earlier than other units during the Fatherland Liberation War, began demonstrating their aviation skills.

The participants raised cheers of admiration at the flying corps letting off fireworks of celebration and respect in the nocturnal sky on the war victory day while displaying such aerial combat flying movements as zero flights, vertical zooming and spiral climbs blowing off shower of fire.

General Secretary Kim Jong Un and his wife Ri Sol Ju appeared at the event venue together with war veterans amid the playing of the welcome music.

All the participants burst into stormy cheers of "Hurrah!", looking up to Kim Jong Un, the symbol of all victories

Kim Jong Un delivers speech at the celebration of 69th anniversary of great victory in Fatherland Liberation War

The respected Comrade Kim Jong Un made a speech entitled The Veterans of the Fatherland Liberation War Are the Most Heroic Generation of Our Republic at the celebration of the 69th anniversary of the great victory in the Fatherland Liberation War on July 27. The following is the full text:

Esteemed comrade veterans of the Fatherland Liberation War,

Comrade lecturers and officials engaged in the administration of revolutionary relics associated with the victorious war, service personnel and students of universities and revolutionary schools present in this meaningful place with the revolutionary elders,

Dear Pyongyang citizens,
Dear all the other people,
Comrades,

This is the victorious July 27, which we have greeted again with a feeling of great pride and with precious memories.

Although as many as 25-203 days have passed since the birth of the epoch-making miracle, the delight in and glory of victory in the war are just as those of yesterday. As we have felt these feelings every year, our emotion and pride are also infinite again today.

Comrades,

I warmly congratulate you on the great Victory Day that brought imperishable glory and honour to our motherland.

Esteemed comrade war veterans,

The country's situation is difficult and recently we have experienced a public health crisis, but until today you have maintained health in your precious bodies. I am very grateful for this.

Thank you, indeed.

Comrades,

At this moment the whole country is recollecting the glorious lives of the martyrs of the Korean People's Army and other revolutionary martyrs who dedicated their youth and lives in defence of the sovereignty and honour of their motherland, and is paying an ennobling tribute, praying for the immortality of their great souls and spirit.

Countless war martyrs, both sung and unsung, have left us and many war veterans are not with us in this place, but they all live in the embrace of the country they defended at the cost of their blood and lives, and they are greeting the glorious night with us at this moment.

Hoping that you, comrade war veterans, will live in good health and the conference of war veterans as glorious as this one will be held continuously, I, on behalf of the Workers' Party of Korea and the government, pay a noble tribute to the victors in the 1950s, who gave our people the privilege and infinite honour of celebrating the great victory in the war year after year, and extend warm greetings to the war veterans and other people of wartime merits across the country, who laid the foundation of the existence and development of our socialist state and are still giving us an encouragement as a spiritual pillar.

My gratitude also goes to the family members of the war veterans and to all others who are devoting their efforts and sincerity for the preservation of health and the living of the war veterans.

Avaling myself of this opportunity, I pay a noble tribute to the martyrs of the Chinese People's Volunteers, who shed their precious blood without hesitation sharing the same destiny as our soldiers and people in the same trench against the imperialists' aggression. I also send warm greetings to the veterans of the Chinese People's Volunteers.

Comrades,

Of all the meaningful and auspicious holidays of our state, July 27 is an extraordinarily dignified holiday in that we celebrate victory.

For every country and people, there is no other proud and brilliant glory and honour than the victory in a do-or-die war.

The past Fatherland Liberation War was, for our Republic, a war for defending the existence of its territory and people, as well as a fierce confrontation, the first of its kind after the Second World War, between the two poles, the democratic camp and the imperialist camp.

The fact that the US imperialists hurled not only their troops but also a large number of troops of their vassal states to the Korean front shows the fierce nature and international character of the Korean war.

The fight by the young army of the newly-emergent, two-year-old Republic against the imperialist aggressive army of the United States, which was the most ferocious on the earth, and its vassal forces was the one against too heavy odds.

However, as etched in history correctly, the arrogant aggressive ambition of the United States to occupy our territory at a stroke and expand the sphere of its influence met at its first step an unprecedentedly strong counterattack and terrific bravery and was completely frustrated with the signing of an armistice agreement after their three-year desperate war.

The military capability of the US imperialists and their allies sustained a serious defeat in this war.

We defended the dignity, honour and sovereignty of our Republic, safeguarded the environment for the independent development of our state, checked the US ambition for world supremacy, and defended peace of mankind by preventing new world war. Herein lies the great significance of the Fatherland Liberation War in the history of our nation and the world history of wars.

The great victory in the Fatherland Liberation War, in which we staunchly defended the most dangerous first line of the anti-imperialist struggle in an eastern part of the earth, is a victory of defenders over aggressors, a victory of justice and the progressive over injustice and the reactionary, and a victory of significance in human history, which proved the iron truth that no aggressors, however strong and superior they may be, cannot overwhelm an army and people that have turned out in a do-or-die resistance.

Although they defended the dignity and honour, the territory and sovereignty of their country at the cost of their blood, our war veterans have continued to work selflessly, steadfastly, honestly and devotedly for their country throughout their lives, setting a model of a patriotic life for posterity. Herein lie the true features of a human being, ennobling traits, which can be found only in them.

Our revolution has been in sharp confrontation with the United States which has bluntly resorted to nuclear threat against us since the Fatherland Liberation War. This historical environment demanded that we, above all else, raise our state's self-defence capability onto a due level, and we have realized this pressing historic task through an arduous struggle.

Indeed, the war veterans are the most heroic generation that laid an unbreakable foundation of our Republic in the face of upheavals of history, and they are models of the great, unyielding Korean people.

The loyalty, bravery and patriotism you have demonstrated throughout your life are now pulsating in the hearts of the tens of millions of people. Because our revolution has the great and excellent features created in the flames of the grim war in the 1950s as its genetic quality, it is indomitably carving out its cause by its own efforts down through generations without any setback or retreat in the face of difficulties.

As everyone knows well, the veterans of the Fatherland Liberation War were quite ordinary young men and women, but they were laudable sons and daughters of the nation who were not ordinary at all in the battles for defending their country.

Comrades,

For us, the V-Day is not merely a celebration day of commemorating and looking back to the chapter of resistance in the heroic era.

The day serves as a valuable and significant occasion for us to judge whether we can proudly say before the embodiment and witnesses of history, who brought about the greatest victory in the harshest and grimmest annals, that our current struggle is an inheritance of the great tradition and to renew confidence and courage, passion and mettle.

With the love for their benevolent system, native homes, workplaces, parents and siblings and with the hatred against the enemy who were trying to deprive them of these all, our war veterans stoutly surmounted grim trials and heartrending pains of loss and displayed unequalled mass heroism, striking terror and despair into the hearts of the brutal and heinous invaders.

Our great Fatherland Liberation War clearly showed that something miraculous can be created when a people, though simple and ordinary, turn out in defiance of death to defend what belong to them.

Just as the victorious wartime generation did, so should we exert ourselves without let-up for the next generation.

To further consolidate the nation's defence capability on the strength of the heroic spirit displayed during the war is a fundamental guarantee for defending the national interests of the Republic and its independent development.

The US imperialists are obsessed with making a "devil" of our state by manipulating the international understanding and opinion of it. This is nothing but a stereotyped method of camouflaging their aggressive nature as a world peace breaker and justifying their illegal hostile policy.

I have already made it clear that we should be ready both for talks and confrontation and more fully for confrontation in particular in order to reliably guarantee the security of our state.

The arrogant nature of the US imperialists has remained unchanged as ever.

We must confront the US imperialists to the end on the strength of ideology and arms.

I reaffirm that the Democratic People's Republic of Korea is thoroughly prepared to cope with any kind of military clashes with the United States.

If the United States continuously attempts to impair the image of our state and make a serious infringement of our security and fundamental interests, it will only compel itself to put up with greater uneasiness and crises.

The government of our Republic would like to take this opportunity to send a serious warning to the south Korean conservative regime and its hawks that run amuck, indulged in abnormal excessive covetousness and confidence in strength, and stand in the van of implementing the US's hostile policy towards the DPRK.

Even tonight, nay, at this moment, when the fireworks light up the nocturnal sky in celebration of the V-Day, the hideous warmongers and rogues on the land south of the 250km-long front line, in a high fever of military craziness, are resorting to various military manoeuvrings, which are threatening our state.

The south Korean conservative regime which took office this year is resorting to the extremely atrocious confrontation policies actually most fearful of.

If the south Korean regime and military ruffians think about confronting us militarily and that they can neutralize or destroy some parts of our military forces preemptively by resorting to some special military means and methods,

They are grossly mistaken!

Such a dangerous attempt will be punished at once by a powerful force and Yoon Suk Yeol regime and its army will be annihilated.

The conservative regime of south Korea must admit before too late that it has already gone too far from its beginning, and that it should think seriously upon the actions that may invite danger to itself.

They are brazen-faced enough to advocate "peace based on strength" and "security based on strength," and have put up a bold front, claiming that they would not hesitate in launching a "preemptive strike" to neutralize the war deterrent of our state.

We correctly remember what Yoon Suk Yeol said and did on several occasions before and after taking office.

We have also listened to the recent imprudent remarks made by the military ruffians of south Korea, and are watching all the noteworthy military actions they conduct with the United States.

At this very moment, south Korea is growing more frantic to develop weapons and strengthen its defence industry in a bid to recover, even a little, its military inferiority as compared with ours, and it is planning to bring in nuclear strategic weapons of the United States in large numbers and expanding war drills under various pretexts.

However, we should see that the more frequent vainglorious remarks and various hues of shameful conducts recently made by the south Korean authorities with regard to their security come from their inevitable sense of uneasiness that they have to live under the very nose of a nuclear state.

This and that vainglorious remark by the south Korean authorities may be understood as reliable and steel-strong security and advanced military strength to the relief of their people, but to me, they are seen only as being so frightened and at their wits' end.

If they are to get rid of the stigmas as a president on a chopping board and a regime exposed to the gravest peril, they should be more prudent and use their brains more than their mouths. And they are well advised to refrain from finding fault with us now and then; or not to deal with us at all may be a better way for them.

Comrades,

Our armed forces are now fully prepared to cope with any sort of crisis, and our state's nuclear war deterrent is also fully ready to demonstrate its absolute power accurately and promptly true to its mission.

I affirm that the safety of this land and the system and sovereignty of this country you, war veterans, defended at the cost of your blood are thoroughly guaranteed by more powerful self-defence capabilities and stout spirit.

We will grow stronger.

The government of our Republic will safeguard our state, people and sovereignty by dint of ever-growing, out-and-out military capabilities and a resolute anti-imperialist and anti-US spirit and approach to the south and the enemy.

The situation of our revolution, in which we should overpower and crush more thoroughly the enemy's desperate manoeuvres for arms race and dangerous military attempts, demands a more rapid change in our military capabilities. In order to carry out this responsible historic task, our Party Central Committee has recently decided on the tasks related to the strategy for developing the national self-defence capabilities, and is leading the effort for their accurate implementation.

War is a merciless conflict between forces. Its victory, however, always is in store for the side that is possessed of fervent love and strong faith. This truth can never be changed even in today's warfare, in which state-of-the-art military techniques are mobilized in full force.

Our People's Army will keep channelling its main efforts into fully displaying its political and ideological superiority, the source of its mightiness and invincibility. By doing so, it will grow into the world's strongest army that demonstrates its formidable striking power with a steadfast revolutionary spirit, unparalleled bravery and indefatigable fighting spirit.

Comrades,

Although time passes and rivers and mountains change, one generation is replaced by another, forming a single living organism with the same blood and with inexhaustible vitality connected with the heroic fighting spirit—this is the source of indomitable strength peculiar to our state and our people.

Our Republic that invariably carries forward the history and tradition of the great victory in the war will be ever-victorious.

The exploits of the war veterans, who saved our state and nation and defended their future in the grimmest years, will remain forever along with our Republic that will be ever prosperous.

Esteemed comrade war veterans,

By carrying forward the souls and spirit of the heroic wartime generation and struggling more powerfully and bravely, we will build without fail a powerful and prosperous socialist paradise on this land which you defended.

I say once again: Even if you do nothing more than remain healthy, that will be a great encouragement to us.

Asking you once again to be careful with your health, I sincerely wish every one of you a long life.

Comrades,

Long live our great July 27!

Long live the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, our glorious motherland!

Members of the honour guard of the Korean People's Army solemnly entered the venue to the tune of the song "Our National Flag", upholding the DPRK flag.

As the DPRK national anthem was played solemnly, the sacred national flag was gradually hoisted up to the nocturnal sky of the war victory day.

Kim Jong Un made a significant speech commemorating the war victory day.

His speech greatly stirred up the hearts of all the participants as it was pulsating with warm love, respect and noble moral obligation toward the great revolutionary generation who honourably defended the glorious fatherland and provided an ideological and moral asset for making the Korean revolution always emerge victorious through generations to come and with the solemn declaration of the will to display forever the most dignified and independent powerful country of the people, provided at the sacrifice of forerunners, to the whole world.

Amid the enthusiastic cheers, a spectacular fireworks display started.

Fireworks were gorgeously displayed in the sky over the immortal statue of victory and group of sculptures of the heroic fighters as congratulatory bouquets to the generation of war victors who created a new history of building a prosperous country by successfully following the tradition of the anti-Japanese war.

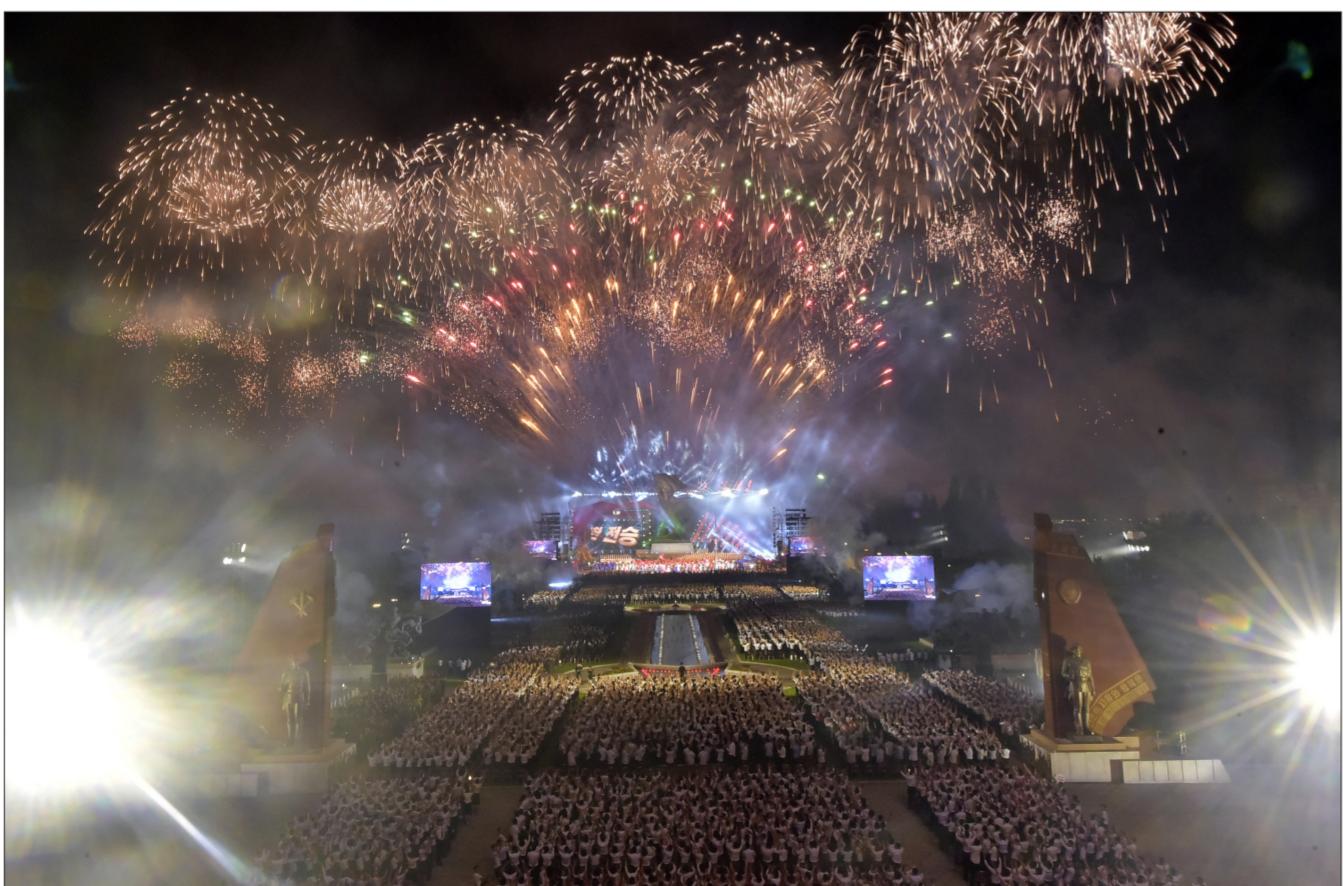

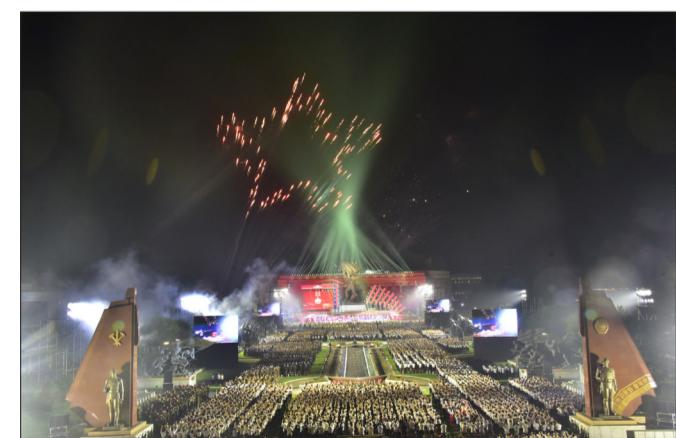

Fireworks continued to be set off amid the playing of songs in praise of war victory associated with the ardent desire and will to bring earlier a fresh victory of Korean-style socialism true to the noble soul of forerunners, more warmly implanting the immutable truth that victory and glory are in store on the road of faith advancing unyieldingly by dint of great ideology and unity.

The fireworks depicting the flag of the DPRK and the Hero Medal and letters "Long live July 27, the day of great war victory!" were also displayed in the sky, reflecting the noble tribute the motherland and the descendants pay to the heroic soldiers in the war.

A unique performance began to

commemorate the great V-Day.

Put on the stage were wartime songs and excellent pieces of music widely sung as songs of struggle and faith in the annals of victory.

Singing "Song of National Defence", the first wartime song loudly sung by all the Korean people as the one of all-people volunteering to the front and the one of advance to smash the enemy at the beginning of the war, and other songs of death-defying resistance created in the flames of the war, the performers highly praised the legendary feats of the defenders of the country who repelled the invasion by the US imperialists and won the victory unprecedented in history, united around President Kim Il Sung with one mind and purpose.

The stage was full of respect for the war victors who saved the destiny and future of the country by smashing the A-bomb with the rifle and handed down the great fame and honour of being heroic Korea and heroic people to the coming generation. Put on it in succession were "For My Only Motherland" and other songs telling the noble spirit and soul of the generation of war victors.

When the sacred image of Kim Il Sung making a historic radio speech to arouse the whole country to the sacred war for the defence of the country and announcing the victory of the Korean people at the military parade celebrating the victory in the war were shown along with his recorded sonorous voice, the audience broke into stormy applause as a token of their boundless reverence for him, the peerlessly brilliant commander who worked a military miracle of the 20th century at the forefront of the confrontation with the US with his distinguished military idea and theory, superb strategy and tactics, bold pluck and ardent love and trust.

The performance reached its climax with the narrative poem "Warriors' Soul" which reflected the respect for the victorious wartime generation who turned the war, the worst disaster, into the most sacred glory, called war victory.

The audience was deeply moved by the narrative poem reflecting the solemn pledge of the successors to steadily write a history of war victory in the new century.

The performers also sang "Battle Song of the Chinese People's Volunteers" dealing with the military merits of the excellent sons and daughters of the Chinese people who fought shoulder to shoulder with the Korean people in the same trench of the war against the imperialists' invasion.

The performance tremulously increased the people's readiness to be eternally strong and victorious holding higher the banner of self-sustenance and self-development under the leadership of Kim Jong Un for a wealthy country with a powerful army which the first and second generations of the Korean revolution preciously visualized in the flames of wars and for the absolute prestige of socialist Korea which no formidable enemy in the world dare provoke.

The performance ended with "Tell, Fireworks of War Victory" and "July 27, Our Victory Day".

Again jubilant fireworks were set off to decorate the nocturnal sky of the holiday.

Kim Jong Un warmly took the hands of war veterans following him step by step, expressing the conviction that the victory traditions and fighting traits of the great years would become a good nutrient for bringing up our people and younger generation to be indomitable patriotic fighters and an inexhaustible source of giving steady birth to new victories and miracles.

best asset, solid root for invincibility, that cannot be bartered for anything.

Stressing the need to always remember and creditably carry forward the heroic spirit and fighting traits of the great revolutionary generation, who laid firm foundations for an independent power with their devoted sacrifice and undying feats, as the country grows stronger, he affirmed that our country will always emerge victorious along with the miraculous victory when the entire Party, all the people and the whole army fully arm themselves with the indomitable fighting spirit of the forerunners and thoroughly apply it in practice.

WPK Central Committee sends congratulatory message to war veterans

KCNA

The Central Committee of the Workers' Party of Korea sent a congratulatory message to all the war veterans across the DPRK on war victory day.

The message said that the Eighth National Conference of War Veterans was opened in grand style on the occasion of the 69th anniversary of victory in the great Fatherland Liberation War at a time when the patriotic enthusiasm of all the people is running unusually high to build a comprehensively developed, civilized, prosperous and powerful country as early as possible, true to the new fighting programme of the Party, and went on:

The WPK Central Committee extends warm congratulations to the war veterans across the country who honourably defended the sovereignty and dignity of the DPRK and created the heroic fighting spirit and the tradition of victory to be handed down through generations by displaying matchless courage in the fierce war under the outstanding commandership of the great leader Kim Il Sung.

The Fatherland Liberation War in the 1950s was a do-or-die struggle that defended the people's country from the armed invasion of imperialism, and also a sacred revolutionary war that gave birth to the great spiritual asset ensuring the uninterrupted, victorious advance of our cause.

The establishment of the fighting spirit and precious tradition, which should be carried on through generations by our Party and people, in the flames of the war was an event as significant as a victory in the war.

The iron faith that they would win without fail as long as they were led by the great leader constituted the source of strength which enabled our people to defeat the US-led imperialist allied forces.

In those days of successively making miraculous military achievements unprecedented in history of war by dint of ardent patriotism, matchless bravery and death-defying self-sacrificing spirit by rising up in hearty response to the appeal of the leader who called on the whole country to wage a sacred war of annihilating enemy, the participants in the all-peoples resistance in the 1950s clearly etched in history the philosophical principle that no force can match the power of single-hearted unity in which the leader believes in the people and the latter believe in and follow the former.

The heroic fighters of the Fatherland Liberation War beat the military and technological edge of the imperialist aggressor forces with the political and ideological superiority peculiar to our revolutionary armed forces to demonstrate as a heroic legend that even the rifle is more powerful than any modern military hardware if it is fully charged with ideology.

Bearing deep in their minds the great leader's instruction to show the mettle of Koreans to the US aggressors, the brave soldiers of the People's Army demonstrated the dignity and heroism of the Korean people by displaying fearless valour and fighting spirit in every battlefield, it said, and noted:

The Party's cause has kept advancing without a moment's standstill despite all sorts of difficulties and obstacles in the way of our revolution and frequent threats to the existence of our state and people, and the secret of it lies in that the precious spiritual heritage and the tradition of victory provided by the victorious wartime generation have definitely been carried forward.

The war veterans, winners of the great victory, recorded in history the truth that genuine human love is a mighty power capable of removing the dark clouds of war and that the war victory of our people belongs to the most beautiful human beings.

Noble love for comrades-in-arms and human beings with which they donated blood and skin to their comrades-in-arms and covered them from enemy's bullets developed into the popular heroism and self-sacrificing spirit in battlefields where hails of bullets fell and set an example of overpowering the military and technological edge of aggressors with the spiritual and moral superiority of the revolutionary army.

The first honourable generation of independent guards gave full play to militant unity and collectivism for the one goal of defending the country in do-or-die battles determining whether they could keep their dignity or suffer humiliation and whether they could remain alive or die. This sacred liberation war of ours raised one full generation of heroes who would undertake the postwar reconstruction and socialist revolution and this generation ushered in the great Chollima era when the country made a leap forward under the communist slogan of "One for all and all for one!"

Although many years have passed since the hair of the war veterans, who had been in their late teens and 20s in the 1950s, turned grey and your uniforms bearing signs of hard-fought war discoloured, the fighting spirit created by you still gives inexhaustible impetus to the advance of the country without even a moment's change.

The greatest pride for a revolutionary party and people is to possess a noble spirit which ensures that the tradition of victory is successfully carried on and which links all the generations of the revolution.

You handed down this precious legacy, and herein lies the immortal feats the victorious wartime generation performed.

The war has not ended yet on this land.

The road of revolution chosen by ourselves and to be followed through generations goes with an acute confrontation with imperialism.

Respecting, valuing and holding in high esteem war veterans is an important affair to ensure the reliable succession and eternal victory of the revolutionary cause, not just an expression of moral obligation.

Woman driver deputy

By Pang Un Ju PT

Among women deputies who discuss affairs of state is Ho Myong Gum, Merited Driver of the Ryomot Trolley Bus Station.

The 54-year-old has been working as driver for nearly 40 years since she started working in the sector of passenger service in Pyongyang after finishing middle school.

She became a bus driver with the determination to do something worthwhile for society and the people. She took good care of her trolley bus like the apples of her eyes and made assiduous efforts to acquire good driving skills.

And she found her life partner in her workplace. In the spring of 1992, she got married to Choe Hong Gi, an ex-serviceman who had been working as her co-driver of the same trolley bus for eight years. On their wedding day, they promised to each other to live as couple co-drivers devotedly serving the people all their lives.

As they ran the fixed bus route in shifts, they had little time to enjoy family life all together.

"I have travelled by this trolley bus for over ten years. I use it when going to work and to cultural recreational places with my family on holidays, and I can always see her on the driving seat.

She is really a hard worker making selfless efforts for the people," said Ho.

Woman worker obtains engineering doctorate

By Han Kwi Hun PT

Choe Pok Sun, a workteam leader of the Koryo Food-processing Factory who would attract the people as she was highly appreciated at several rounds of sci-tech festivals and exhibitions in the past, was awarded a doctorate in April.

Many people sincerely congratulated her as she became a PhD.

Born the fourth of five children, she lost her father in her childhood.

But all of them grew up free from worries, learning to their heart's content as they desired.

When she was about to finish middle school, her teacher and classmates expected that she would go to university as she was so speculative and inquiring that she studied harder than others.

However, she decided to learn while working and began to work at a foodstuff factory.

With painstaking thinking and research, she solved sci-tech problems arising in using the crumbs of bread again in the production of bread and established new fermenting and production processes.

Her research hit has now been introduced into many foodstuff factories and proves effective.

She also succeeded in establishing a snack bread production process which relies on locally available raw materials without using imported ones, contributing to normalized production of the factory.

"No love, no pains. The doctor's medal is a state commendation to you for the untiring efforts you have made with selfless love for the children and country. I wish you would work harder for the beloved country," Han Sok Man, manager of the factory, told Choe on the day she received her PhD degree.

She soon enrolled on the online course of Pyongyang Han Tok Su University of Light Industry to acquire advanced food processing technologies, methods and knowledge.

One day when she groped for a way to save raw and other materials needed for foodstuff production, she became aware that a large amount of crumbs of bread come out from bread production.

The 44-year-old became the mother of five sons and five daughters as she was delivered of her 10th child in the Pyongyang Maternity Hospital in July last year.

When asked in an interview what the motive for bearing so many children was, the simple, tender-hearted woman replied: "Many people ask me that question. I didn't think of having ten children at the beginning, of course." Then she went on to tell a story.

Pak got married to Ri Kwang Chol, an army officer, in 1999. They had one boy and two girls when one day she read an article in Rodong Sinmun which said bearing and raising many children is an important issue associated with the destiny of the country.

"At that time, I realized that having many children and bringing them up to become excellent soldiers who would defend the country like my husband was my duty as a woman and mother," she said.

Since then, she gave birth to another seven children.

She received a prolific mother's medical treatment ticket thanks to the state benefits and was invited as a delegate to the fourth national meeting of mothers.

Officials of Rimyong Workers' District as well as her neighbours provide her family with foodstuffs and daily necessities lest they should have any inconvenience, while the local nursery, kindergarten and schools pay special attention to the growth and education of her children.

CHINESE MEDIA CRITICIZE US FOR AGGRAVATING REGIONAL SITUATION

PROVIDED TO THE PYONGYANG TIMES

On July 15, Chinese newspaper Global Times scathingly attacked the US by issuing a commentary. The commentary said that the regular military moves by the US in the Asia-Pacific, including in the waters of the South China Sea, have detrimental effects on regional peace and security.

The commentary opined that the Asia-Pacific region is being engulfed in security predicament with the passage of time. It said that a battle group led by the carrier USS Ronald Reagan entered the South China Sea and, at the same time, the US-led joint military exercise "RIMPAC" is taking place on the other side of the Pacific with the involvement of 30-odd warships and more than 170 fighters.

The commentary continued as follows:

The root cause of putting the Asia-Pacific into a security predicament lies in the wrong outlook of the US on security. The outlook on security trumpeted by the US is an extremely selfish one. In other words, it is a deformed one deviated from the present world and reality, with neither consideration of other countries' concern nor moral restraints.

From the Iraqi desert to mountainous regions of Afghanistan, the US failed to bring absolute security. Instead, it is continuing to cause a new headache to the world.

Most people regard the American outlook on security as immature and dangerous.

Some people are now trying to make a breach in the bank, called Asia-Pacific security.

All the countries in the region must pool their efforts to consolidate the bank and prevent the intrusion of further dangerous waves.

China Daily and other Chinese media also asserted that the US is exacerbating the military tension by sending in warships, including the carrier group, after conducting the joint military exercise "RIMPAC" together with all member states of anti-China alliances, i.e. "Quad" and "AUKUS", plus five countries neighbouring the South China Sea. They disclosed that the motive behind such increased military tension is to drag the regional countries by its side under the pretext of the South China Sea issue in an attempt to contain China.

Because of the reckless military threat of the US aimed at containing China and maintaining its hegemonic position, the dark clouds of confrontation and tension are looming on the horizon in the Asia-Pacific region.

Everlasting would be Moncada spirit inspiring Cuban people to victory in socialism

By Song Se Il

The Cuban people are celebrating July 26 with significance as the day of popular uprising.

At dawn of July 26 1953, 165 members of the Cuban revolt army launched an assault on Moncada barracks under the leadership of Comrade Fidel Castro to oppose the pro-US Batista

Before the assault, Comrade Fidel Castro made an appeal to the revolutionaries as follows: "If we gain victory, the people's desire will be realized. Even if we fail, we will set an example in the struggle of the Cuban people. Move forward under the flag!"

This is the Moncada spirit cherished in the hearts of the Cuban people.

The gunshot of Moncada barracks assault became the first signal of armed struggle in Cuba and it flared up into an all-people uprising followed by the landing of "Granma" and guerrilla struggle at Mt. Sierra Maestra. On January 1, 1959, it brought down the reactionary pro-American dictatorial regime and gave birth to the first socialist system in the Western Hemisphere.

Today, the Moncada spirit is handed down as an indomitable revolutionary spirit of the Cuban people. It is encouraging the people of all walks of life, including the communists, workers and young people, to smash all sorts of challenges from the US and hostile forces, to strengthen the revolutionary stronghold and to achieve success in all fields upholding the banner of socialism permeated with blood of the martyrs.

During the prolonged period of over half a century after the victory of the revolution, the Cuban people have been rallying around the Party with revolutionary awareness, smashing all anti-revolutionary disturbances of hostile forces instigated by the US. They also fully displayed their devotion in the struggle to safeguard socialism and the gains of the revolution.

The Moncada spirit created by the first generation of the revolution permeates the gains of the Cuban people achieved on the historic course of socialist construction and defence of the system.

Now, the Cuban people are waging a vigorous struggle to firmly defend their political base and bolster its self-supporting economic foundations with unshakable confidence in victory of the socialist cause even in the face of the severe sanctions and blockade of the US and the global health crisis, resolutely frustrating the interference of the US and hostile forces.

We extend our warm militant greetings to the Cuban people who are celebrating July 26, the historic day when there rang the first gunshot of anti-US resistance in the Western Hemisphere.

We also express our strong will to always fight together on the common front of the anti-US struggle.

National cultural heritage—Janggo dance

By Ri Myong Jun PT

Janggo dance, a dance performed carrying an hourglass drum, is one of folk dances of Korea with a long history and strong national colouring.

Janggo was called yogo in the period of the Three Kingdoms (mid-3rd century BC-AD mid-7th century) and its dancers are depicted in the murals of tombs Nos. 4 and 5 of the five tombs with murals of Koguryo.

Dating back to the time of the Three Kingdoms, Janggo dance originated from Soljanggo dance, a kind of peasant dance.

Soljanggo, a little smaller than Janggo, was used by beaters belonging to instrumentalists' bands in the peasant dances which were performed to either wish for a bumper crop or celebrate it in rural areas.

Soljanggo beaters highlighted the role of the bands as they beat tunes while moving their shoulders up and down and arms charmingly, and the dance evolved into an independent dance form.

The depictive techniques of Janggo dance became diverse in the course of its development and made further progress in the latter half of the feudal Joson dynasty (1392-1910).

In those days peasant dance came into vogue in different parts of Korea, and in the process of the development of its depictive techniques, Janggo beaters responsible for its music also performed dance movements to enhance its representation. As a result, the vigorous and optimistic Janggo dance done by men came to win popularity as a leading part in the peasant dance.

Janggo beaters were male in the initial period, and therefore the dance was vigorous and outgoing. Afterwards, it rapidly spread to women, who performed it gently, elegantly and in a smart way.

Its main component is drum-beating, which is divided into beating both sides and the body with a drumstick and hand. Also there are normal, cross and other ways of beating. The normal beating is to beat the right side with a stick and the left side with the left hand. These movements, based on various tunes and variations of rhythm, form the techniques peculiar to Janggo dance in combination with various dance movements.

The charm of the dance gets pronounced when different kinds of movements are executed while the two sides of Janggo are alternately beaten with a stick in one hand at a fast speed.

Janggo dance is stronger in the rhythmic feature and more sightworthy than other dances for the harmonious combination of various beating techniques and dance movements.

It was played either solo or as group dance. The solo is characterized by skilful and ever-changing movements and the group dance by the harmony of vigorous and outgoing movements.

Janggo dance has been enriched and developed to suit the modern sense of beauty and is widely used in the creation of various dance pieces.

It is now successfully being carried on and developed through widespread practice, enjoying huge popularity among Koreans.

Rice cake, Koreans' favourite food

By Hwang Jong Ryol PT

Rice cake is a distinctive food favoured by all the Korean people.

They have long made it by pounding the steamed glutinous rice or steaming the dough made of polished rice flour.

The ancestors made it a custom to prepare rice cake on holidays, birthdays, wedding days and other auspicious occasions and people said that only high sound of pounding rice cake evoked festive mood.

Rice cake that is also served as a staple food has so much variety.

The most typical one is chattok, or a cake made by steaming glutinous rice.

The glutinous rice cake is often dressed with red beans, soybean flour or sesame seeds.

As the cake is sticky, it scarcely hardens soon.

According to old history books, hardened glutinous rice cake becomes soft again when it is roasted and the roasted chattok spread with honey is an excellent food.

It is known as good for treating stomach troubles and invigorating the body.

Among the cakes made of polished rice flour, songphyon is famous.

It is made by steaming the half-moon-shaped dough on pine needles, hence the name. Polished rice flour is kneaded with hot water to make the dough and bits of it are rolled out into flat round pieces. Each piece is moulded into half-moon shape by filling it with stuffing, before steaming.

The stuffing is made with sesame seeds, red beans and the like and there is also wormwood songphyon made by mixing polished rice with the young soft plant.

Solgittok or siruttok is a cake made by steaming the loosely-kneaded dough of polished rice flour in a steamer.

Its main ingredients are polished or glutinous rice flour and the dressing is made with red beans, soybeans, sesame seeds or mung beans.
